Boys Rob Store.

The store of Waldron & Johnson was broken into Sunday night and a large quantity of merchandise stolen. The robbery was committed about 8 o'clock at night while the neighbors were at church. Monday Deputy Sheriff G. M. Derickson and A. P. Johnson followed the tracks of the thieves and arrested Homer and Dewey Frazier, two young boys. They were taken to Stanton and lodged in jail, and the next day confessed that they had gone to the store with another brother, Robert Frazier, and Charlie Holmes, and that they had broken into the place and kept watch while the others packed the loot into a coffee sack. Warrants were at once sworn out for the others, but they have not yet been arrested. The plunder, the boys stated, was taken by Holmes, and hidden in the cliffs up Black creek, but it has not been recovered yet. The story of the boys that they did not take any of the stuff is hardly borne out by the results, as amongst the plunder was a sack of marbles, some oranges and apples, candy and tobacco, some of which were dropped at different places on the road, forming a good trail for the officers.

Entrance was made by boring a hole in the lower panel of the door and forcing it in, after which the key, which was in the door, was turned.

The trial of the boys was set for Thursday morning, and an effort is being made to locate Holmes. The augur used was one owned by the father of the boys, and was left outside the door.

What might have been a serious fire was narrowly averted Sunday when the stove in the kitchen at Mr. C. Shimfessel's burned through the bottom and allowed the hot coals to fall on the floor. The fire burned right through the floor before being noticed, and when the smoke attracted members of the family who were in the room, the fire had got quite a start, and only prompt work checked it.

TO RUN FOR REPRESENTATIVE.

T. J. Ponder, the hustling Xenia merchant, has announced his candidacy for the Republican nomination as Representative from this district, and will at once begin an active campaign throughout the county. Mr. Ponder is well known all over Powell and Estill, and has many friends who will stand behind him. He is a strong Republican who has always stayed with his party, and he and his friends feel that he is entitled to the office particularly as he is well qualified for it. His career as a merchant shows that he understands the necessities of business, and that is one qualification that is most needed by a Representative.

WAR PRICES.

The European war has been blamed for a great many things, but the most striking is the general advance in the prices of many commodities. For a few weeks the sugar trust was the talk of the country, and the prices of sugar advanced by leaps and bounds, only to drop when the consumption was curtailed by the public. Hundreds of other articles of less general use also advanced, but the fact was not so noticeable. Now the millers are taking a shot at the public, and have advanced the price of flour until it is at almost beyond the reach of the consumer. Nearly every day the price takes another jump, and the poor consumer is at a loss to know what to do. Wheat is expected to go to two dollars a bushel, and some has already been sold in New York at $1.99. There is no necessity for these prices at all. The country harvested one of the finest crops in years in 1914, but the larger part of it was at once purchased by speculators, who are now reaping their profits. Unless a stop can be put to this kind of business, it will cause much hardship among the laboring people, who have to pay war prices when the country is at peace.

To Undergo Operation.

Mrs. Clarence Hazelrigg, who suffered a severe injury to her eye a few weeks ago when a cartridge fell into the open fireplace and exploded, went to Cincinnati a few days ago, and had the injured eye examined under the X-ray. The sight of one eye had been completely destroyed, and the examination showed that a small particle of the cartridge had remained in the eye. Mrs. Hazelrigg will undergo an operation in a day or two to have the piece removed. She was accompanied to Cincinnati by her daughter, Miss Josephine Hazelrigg.

GOVERNOR BLEASE RESIGNS.

Governor Cole Blease, of South Carolina, did the only decent act of his administration when he resigned the office last week, five days before his term expired. No reason was given for the action, and none was asked, the citizens of that state being only too well pleased with his action to enquire as to the whys and wherefores of it. Governor Blease, during his term of office as chief executive of South Carolina, became the most popular man in the state. One of his pet hobbies was the pardoning of prisoners in the State Penitentiary. 1,708 of whom he released. Over 1,000 of these were retored to citizenship recently. About a week before he resigned he issued an order disbanding the entire State militia, claiming that it was inefficient. Altogether he had a spectacular career, and the South Carolinians are glad to see the last of him.

PACKERS MAKE MONEY.

The packers are having a big year, and the European war has been a Godsend to them although it may still further decrease the supply of beef in the United States. The gross business of Swift & Company for the year recently ended, was $425,000,000, about twenty-five million more than the previous year. This means that they handled over two million tons of meat, which is an exceptionally large amount. Those farmers who are raising and feeding cattle are sure to reap the benefit before long, as the continued shortage will be sure to advance prices.

HUSTLING FOR VOTES.

A. M. Lowe, of Rosslyn, who has announced for Representative from this district, is already hustling around and getting acquainted with the voters who will pass on him in August. "Mack" is a hustler, and if he does not win, his opponent will know that he has been somewhere when the votes are counted. Mr. Lowe has many friends in Estill, where his father was raised, and he and his father have both been scouting around there, and from reports they are meeting with good success. So far, no other candidate has announced for the Democratic nomination.

STANTON.

Mr. E. H. Fuller made a recent business trip to Lexington.

Rev. D. G. Coombs will preach here fifth Sunday instead of fourth Sunday as announced.

Mr. Lennie Crowe is improving every day and will be able to sit up this week if all goes well.

Mr. Banford White, of Irvine, was here on legal business Tuesday of this week.

Mr. Clifton Chaney left Tuesday for Jackson to visit with relatives and friends and transact business.

Miss May Bowen, of Lexington, was a recent visitor to her cousins, Misses Lillie and Maude Boone.

Mr. Dave Lucas, who opened up a store and barber shop in the Chaney building, will soon move away from Stanton, the writer not learning where he will go.

Mr. Leslie Holmes is sick and has a day and night guard to watch him. There is some talk of sending him to the State hospital for treatment.

Miss Margaret Switzer, who has been visiting her aunt, Mrs. Lucy Jackson, left Saturday for Lexington where she will visit relatives and friends before returning to her home in Indiana.

Mr. Milt Lykins has moved his family to our town that he might place his children in school. He will open up a store in the Chaney building at the depot. Mr. Lykins was a merchant before he came here, having been burnt out recently with a $4,000 stock and no insurance.

The W. T. C. U. held their meeting on Thursday of last week. This was the beginning of the movement for State wide prohibition in Kentucky. Similar meetings were held all over the State by the W. T. C. U. and great enthusiasm was had wherever they were held. The writer reported wrong when he said two women from abroad would be speakers, but the meeting at the College Chapel in the morning was largely attended and a splendid program was held. The student body took great interest in the meeting and as we looked into their splendid faces we thought that a power they could be against this awful traffic in our country. If there were no other reasons for abolishing the saloons and whisky out of our country, to look into the faces of that fine body of students would be all the reason we would need. Charley Crowe recited a very touching piece that appealed to everybody in the room. The young man said, "it didn't make any difference to him whether there was whisky or not, but when he became a murderer under its influence it did make a difference." The father said it didn't make any difference with him either, but when he felt its terrible hand upon his home and business, it did make a difference. The mother said it didn't make any difference with her either, but when she saw her boy become a drunkard and a ruined life, it did make a difference. Every mother and father in Stanton, who has a son or daughter, ought to help put this awful business out of our country. The meeting at the Christian church was not well attended as the weather was bad and very hard for the people to get out. Mrs. Betty Johnson, who is the president of the local W. T. C. U., was the most enthusiastic person at all the meetings. She was so enthused that she got all the rest enthused, and she made us feel that we must get to work. If all the women in Stanton could become as enthused as she was there would be no danger of the saloon ever coming back to Stanton. It is to be hoped that every woman in Stanton will become a member of this W. T. C. U. They have about thirty members now. The liquor people dread the W. T. C. U. more than they do the Anti-Saloon League or any of the other organizations. They know that when the women organize against their business that it must soon go.

The one absorbing topic on the streets of Stanton and in the streets and homes was about our college. A storm of protest is going up from the best people of Stanton against the action that some few persons have taken in trying to injure the college. We cannot understand why any loyal citizen would want to hinder the work of the finest institution that we have in our town. If this college were to be taken away tomorrow there would be a score of families that would leave. The writer has heard many say this past week that they came here especially for this college to educate their children and they would not live here but for the college. Many more are contemplating moving here to educate their children. Only last week a man from Lee county asked the writer to see if he could find a house for rent. He wanted to come here for this college. And this week another request was made of the writer for a house that a family might move here for the same purpose. But there are no houses for rent. This college will do more to build up our town than any other thing we have in Stanton. The writer went through Abingdon, Va., four days after their college had been burned down. And while at Pulaski, Va., there were several towns bidding for the college to come to their town. The town of Pulaski bid $40,000, another nearby town bid $60,000 but the citizens of Abingdon rose up enmass and voted more money than any of the other towns and the college will stay there unless some other town has bid more since the writer was in that state. But the people of Abingdon knew what that college meant to their town and they are going to hold it if possible. The people of Stanton do not fully realize what this college means to Stanton and Powell county. In the coming years Stanton will become known as an educational center. The best people from everywhere will eventually

ANNOUNCEMENTS

We are authorized to announce A. M. LOWE as a candidate for Representative from this district, subject to the action of the Democratic primary, August 4, 1915.

We are authorized to announce H. G. GARRETT as a candidate for Railroad Commissioner in the Third Railroad Commissioners District. Subject to the action of the August primary.

We are authorized to announce W. R. SHACKELFORD as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Circuit Judge in the 25th Judicial District. Primary Aug 4, 1915.

We are authorized to announce T. J. PONDER as a candidate for the Republican nomination for Representative from this District. Primary August 4, 1915.

Hon. A. Owsley Stanley has decided to try for the Democratic nomination for Governor of Kentucky. Mr. Stanley has many friends in Powell who are anxious for his announcement, and he will stand a good chance of a good majority here. Many Republicans have been heard to say that they will support him, and he holds a strong position with the Democrats.

The County Judge's race in Clark will be a battle between John M. Steveson, who at present filling the unexpired term of Judge Evans, and Lee Evans, a son of the former Judge. Both these men are strong Democrats and each has a large personal following.

An ordinance passed by the town board setting a license of $300 on places selling soft drinks, etc., went into effect January 1, but so far has not been enforced, and many of our citizens are wondering why something is not being done. Two of our business houses have stopped handling these drinks, claiming that they cannot afford to pay such a license, but the third is still selling away, and so far has taken out no license. If the ordinance was passed with the intention of enforcing it, why not do so, or if it is not to be enforced, why not withdraw it? The present course will only result in more trouble later on.

To the People of Powell County:

I am a candidate for the Democratic nomination for the office of Circuit Judge in the Twenty-Fifth Judicial District.

Ever since I was admitted to the bar, twenty-four years ago, I have had an ambition to serve on the bench as Circuit Judge. During all this time, I have been making such preparation as was necessary to qualify myself to properly fill this position. As the present incumbent, Judge J. M. Benton, has held this office for two full terms of six years each, and a part of Judge Scott's unexpired term, I feel that it is not improper at this time for me to ask the people of the district for an opportunity to serve them as Circuit Judge. This office was not made a life office by the statute and I hope the people will not make it a life office, but will give a younger man a chance for advancement and promotion.

I am not a candidate for any other office than that of Circuit Judge and if elected, I will give my entire time to the proper administration of the duties of that office, and that office alone, without fear of or favor to any influence whatever. If nominated and elected, I will give an absolutely square deal to everybody exactly alike.

I have had five years experience as Judge of the Madison County Court. I trust that my candidacy, which is not complicated by any entangling alliances of any kind whatever, will commend itself to your interested consideration.

Sincerely Yours,
W. R. SHACKELFORD.

In some places in Kentucky and Tennessee the Night Riders or 'Possum Hunters have been making things interesting for some of the citizens. In one instance they took a man out of his home and, after hitching him up with a mule, made him draw wood to the house for his wife, and laid the whip on liberally. Then he was compelled to prepare the wood for the stove and told that if he did not provide better for his wife and family he would receive another visit, with more painful results. If the night riders would stick to this line of business no one would complain, but they are getting off the tract when they compel a man to hold his tobacco for higher prices than he has agreed to sell for. At Hopkinsville several men were visited who had sold their tobacco for $7, and warned not to deliver it until they got $9. This is a step too far. The night riders should stick to their protection of helpless families who have a good for nothing head. Action of this kind will receive well merited praise.

Senator Camden did a wise act when he decided to refrain from running for the Democratic nomination as Governor of Kentucky. Mr. Camden is one of the most popular men in the State, and has been repeatedly urged to get into the race, but when he was elected Senator last year he said that would be the only favor he would ask of the people. While a great many would have supported him, it would have disqualified him in the eyes of many to thus make a prevaricator of himself.

The Lexington Leader says that H. Green Garrett will have a "lead-pipe cinch" in his race for Railroad Commissioner. If the other 48 counties in the district know Mr. Garrett as he is known in Powell, there is no doubt whatever but what this is true, as his opponent, should be have one, will not need to waste time coming here to try and defeat such a popular man.

LEXINGTON HERALD
ON CASH BASIS

On Sept. 15 the Lexington Herald announced that from date its mailing list would be conducted on a strictly cash in advance basis, all subscribers being discontinued on the first and fifteenth of each month who were not paid in advance. This practice was adhered to from that date, but on the 15 of December it was decided by The Herald to continue all subscribers whose subscriptions expired between that date and the 15 of January to the last named date, thus giving ample time for all who have been in the habit of paying on the first of the year to do so before the expiration date. They also offer the rate of $5.00 to all of those subscribers who pay the full year in advance before January 15.

A daily newspaper was never a more welcome visitor to a home than it has been for months past and as it will be for months to come. The great war of Europe seems just in its beginning, while trouble seems again brewing on the Mexican border. The markets, on account of the unsettled conditions abroad and at home, continue to vary constantly and a daily newspaper is an absolute necessity to the farmer for his protection.

Chip of "The Flying U"

By
KATHLYN WILLIAMS

"And oh, Chip," I cried, as he started away, "Dr. Cecil Granthum may come here to visit me—soon. Won't that be nice?"

"Oh it will be scrumptious," he snapped. "It will make the Flying U a veritable paradise—for all of us." And he stalked away, sullenly.

Good! At last I had found a way to tease Mr. Claude Bennett good and plenty.

A few days later, I was sorting over my medicines and surgical outfit, in the room which I had fitted up as my "office," when I walked the portly and vulgar and domineering Mr. Dunk Whitaker.

Dunk had arrived on another visit to the ranch—one of his now too frequent visits. He would blow in saying he just ran down from Butte to see Jack, my brother, and to look into his interests on the ranch as its "silent partner." In Butte he made his headquarters—cleaning up, as he termed it, almost daily a "big bunch of dough" from his mining interests there.

So now when Dunk blew into my office, he began as usual his sly love making—that self-complacent, take-it-for-granted kind of love making that every woman resents. He pretended that he did not feel very well, and needed a doctor's advice.

"I feel kinder all in," he said, vainly searching his unimaginative mind for some substantial excuse for asking my medical advice. But he could think of nothing sounder than that he was feelin' kinder all in."

"Here!" I said, giving him some medicine. "Take one of these every other hour in half a glass of water till you feel kinder less all in."

"Thanks," he said. "You're sure some doctor, girl. Wouldn't it be kinder nice not to have to depend on this sort of doctorin' business for your living? Suppose, now, you was to marry a money maker who would throw that doctor's bag of your'n into the ash heap and support you regular. Wouldn't that be kinder bully-like?"

"Oh, I'm not worrying about that," I said. "My fee for attendance such as I've just given you—and my advice—is five dollars, please."

He peeled off a new crisp five-dollar bill from a simply disgraceful wad of money—and gave it to me. He seemed to think that his five dollars entitled him to remain in my office indefinitely, for now he planked himself in my easiest chair and settled into it as if expecting a nice long chat.

But just then Chip came in. When he saw me with Dunk, he turned to leave, as if averse to interrupting a tete-a-tete. But I saw at once why Chip had come. His hand was bleeding—he had been hurt. And all my professional interest was aroused—also the motherly heart within me. So I made Chip come in. And I took a long while to bandage his hand and make him comfortable generally—all the while ignoring the thunderstruck Dunk, who at last perceived that alongside of Foreman Chip, he, Dunk Whitaker, part owner of the ranch, wasn't in it for a minute with Dr. Della Whitmore.

When you arouse some men's jealousy you spur their tongues to action in the matter of expressing love. They grow bolder. The more jealous they become, the more desperate they get. With the result that they will lie in wait for an opportunity to express their heart feelings. It was so with Chip. As the days sped on, I found that I had to write almost daily to Dr. Cecil Granthum. And always I found a way to let Chip know that a letter was going to the mail for Dr. Cecil Granthum, till I veritably believe Chip came to hate the very name of Dr. Cecil Granthum.

And, that jealousy inspires the lover to speak right out boldly from his heart, was proved to my satisfaction on the night on which I gave a dance—with my brother's help—for the "boys." All the neighboring ranchmen were invited. And such an assemblage of cowboys and their lassies I had never seen. I purposely danced with Chip only once, giving all the other dances to our guests. In that one dance I tried to initiate him into the tango. He informed me—to my astonishment, for he had never once spoken a single word about his past till then—he told me, during that dance, that it had been four years since he had attended a dance and so he knew nothing about these new fangled didos called the tango and bear and bunny hug and all that sort of thing.

At last, unable to master the step to the syncopated music, he suggested that we walk out in the moonlight.

Out into the Montana moonlight we strolled. And Chip was just about to speak with his hand on his heart and declare his undying affection for "the little doctor"—when we passed the window of my office. I happened to glance in. And what I saw froze the blood in my veins—or at least it made me scream with dismay.

"Look!" I cried. "Those children are going to swallow a lot of medicine from my medicine chest."

Chip was as mad as a hornet. His love speech had been interrupted and now he'd never have another such chance, in the moonlight, to tell me of his undying love.

I bolted into the house and saved those children from an awful case of stomach ache—just in time. For they were about to swallow no end of medicines with Latin names, medicines which, if taken in an overdose—as those children from a neighboring ranch meant to take—would have made a horse writhe in agony. And so Chip's great chance for loving in the moonlight was all spoiled and Chip was exceedingly huffed, not to say miffed and peculiarly silent thereafter through the remainder of the dancing hours devoted to that ranch ball.

Then, about a week later, something happened that meant the beginning of the end—happy end. That afternoon I went forth to sketch the surrounding scenery. I perched on a high rock overlooking the range, with easel and palette and paints. And while thus engaged, I saw a horse running wildly across a far field. I recognized that horse as Whizzer, the wildest horse on the ranch. Pursuing this runaway—Whizzer had broken out of the corral—were Chip and Weary. Up hill and down they chased that wild Whizzer, till at last Chip roped him.

And then, to my horror, I saw Chip take his saddle from his own horse and place it on Whizzer. It was his determination to "break" that wild broncho there and then. I gasped with terror.

Nothing must happen to my Chip. That would never do. I was now myself too deeply interested in this young foreman to view with equanimity the danger to which he was now about to subject his manly person.

I sprang up and shouted: "Don't Chip, don't. You'll get hurt!"

But Chip was too far away to hear my cry of distress. He mounted that Whizzer animal and away that wild broncho sped—trying its best to upset my "hero." And—I think I came near to fainting. The horse threw him.

And that was not all. The horse sped on—Weary after him with a lasso. And there was my Chip being dragged over the ground at a fearful pace. Somehow, his lariat had become loosened from the saddle and had caught in his big Mexican spur, just at the moment when the horse threw him.

So now—well, I've read of the days when savages deliberately tied victims to a wild horse and caused the victim to be dragged to his death thus. And here before my very eyes, Chip of the Flying U was being dragged—was it to his death? My heart stood still, I think, as I watched that spectacular dragging of Chip over the rough ground for perhaps hundreds of yards—till at last, Weary—faithful, capable Weary! bless his heart—roped the wild Whizzer—and Chip lay perfectly still on the ground.

With the speed of an athlete—I guess it was some such speed as that—I ran to the place where Chip lay so still. He was in great pain. One could see that at a glance. But like a stoic and a Spartan, he neither groaned nor complained. He merely said:

"Miss Whitmore, are dislocated ankles in your line?"

Dislocated ankle! Nothing more painful.

"Ride like the wind, Weary," I cried, "and bring help. We must get Mr. Chip to the ranch quick, so I can set that ankle."

HAPPENINGS IN OUR NEIGHBORING VILLAGES

VAUGHN'S MILL.

J. W. Mize, of this place had a good work horse to die the last of the week from eating moulded fodder.

Miss Elizabeth Lyle, who has been here on an extended visit, returned to her home in Clark county Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Gravett and Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Nelson spent Sunday with J. W. Burton of near Clay City.

Mr. Buford and Miss Mattie Estes returned home Sunday from a brief visit at the home of the former's sister, Mrs. Carl Garrett of near Stanton.

Mr. William Todd and wife from Darlingsville spent Saturday and Sunday at the home of the latter's sister, Mrs. Allie Barnett, at this place.

There was a pound party at the home of Mr. Melvin Gravett's Tuesday night. Several of the young folks were present and a real nice time was enjoyed.

Messrs. Geo. and Edd Bush, and families, together with their father, A. P. Bush, enjoyed a nice dinner Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ambrose Barnett's.

Mr. Wheeler Larrison, who lives on Frame's Branch, has been confined to his bed for several days. His family is in sore need and neighbors have gladly contributed to his support in these severe circumstances.

Several from this place attended the public speaking at Clay City Saturday night at the Far mer's Union Supply Co.'s place of business.

There was a good attendance, and lively interest was manifested in the work. Three addresses were made by members of the organization. The first, "Welcome address and Origin and History of the National Farmer's Union," by C. J. Davis. The second, "The Store" by Mr. F. Kennon, Mgr. The third, "Value of the Organization as a lodge and many other important statistics" by Pres. S. G. Baker.

GENET

C. B. Hatton is making some improvements on his dwelling.

B. F. Martin and wife of Lombard, were visiting V. C. Martin last week.

Weed Adams has been confined to his room three weeks with rheumatism.

A. M. Lowe, candidate on the Democratic ticket for Representative from the 73rd legislative district, composed of Powell and Estill counties, was here last Thursday in the interest of his race. When we dive into the musty records of history searching for biographical sketches of great men we find the name of "Lowe" mentioned in several places. That Mr. Lowe is a "chip off the old block" needs no further argument. The writer has known "Mack" Lowe from infancy and when he became a voter he went out into the political field and put his shoulder to the wheel of Democracy and shouted to his many followers to "Push", believing his party is right and that its principles are best for the interests of the masses of the people of this grand country. He is asking to be elected that he may help to write these principles into the statute laws of the State.

LOMBARD.

J. E. Woodard, of Nada, was the guest of John Combs Sunday.

Born, to Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Neal last week, a fine 10-pound boy, A. J.

Stark Kaylor has moved here from Nada, and we welcome him into our midst.

C. D. Morton has moved from here to Nada. The world moves and so does Cord.

Mrs. V. C. Martin, of Genet, was the guest of B. F. Martin and wife Sunday night.

B. F. Martin has just returned from a long, weary tramp over the county road between here and Genet.

Those pretty days last week reminded us that we ought to be out cutting briars and getting everything in shape for farming.

We got sight of Mose Martin Sunday evening coming back from Torrent. Mose has made several trips, but nothing doing yet.

The store of J. H. and G. M. Mullens was broken into last week by some unknown person or persons, but no loot was secured.

John Combs made a flying trip to North Fork last week in the interest of a logging job on the land of J. P. Martin on Rock Branch.

James Knox, the hustling junk man of Nada, is around gathering up a car load of scrap iron. Lots of farmers have plenty of old junk around that they should dispose of and clean their places up.

Some chicken thieves visited Marion Mullens' hen house Sunday night but were discovered by Marion, who heard the chickens squalling and fluttering, and running out with the poker, scared the thieves away before they got any of the fowls.

Rosslyn.

T. C. Hall made a business trip to Mt. Sterling Monday.

Miss Zula Martin visited her sister, Mrs. Shelby Wills Sunday.

Mr. Gother Martin, of Stanton, made a flying trip to this place Monday.

A. M. Lowe was in Irvine canvassing for Representative the past week.

Mrs. W. D. C. owe, of Lombard, was in our town Monday on business.

Messrs. Joe and Cash Neal, and Elmer Derickson called on friends at Vinton Sunday.

Messrs. John and Gother Law, of Idaho, are now visiting their Old Kentucky Home.

Mrs. B. L. Drake, of Hazard, was visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Welch last week.

C. N. Crowe made his usual call in Stanton Sunday. It seems that there is some attraction down there.

Leonard Lowe has been the guest of his aunt, Miss Dena Wymore, of Vinton, for a few days the past week.

move here. This will mean the building of new homes and it will mean the growing of our town. More and more students will come here to get their education. The college will have to provide more facilities for taking care of them. They have $5,000 on hands now to build a new dormitory but they will not build as long as this unfriendly feeling remains toward the college. This feeling ought not to exist and would not but for a few people that do not have the interest of the town at heart. Because they think the college has wronged them a little they want to take their vengeance on it and they do not care how many of the other citizens have to suffer if they can only get in their spite work. Just so they can satisfy their feelings they will try and injure the school and they do not care who else suffers. The writer could tell if he wished to do so just why this family is against the college, and just why that family is against it, and why others are against it. And back of it all is spite work. Just who the leading men back of this business the writer will not say but Smith Hays, of Winchester, is one of the lawyers, and M. A. Phillips, of Stanton, is the other lawyer employed and directing affairs locally. Let us drop this matter before it is too late and we wake up and see what a loss we have sustained. We hear the cry against taxation but if the county has to build a new high school then our taxes would go away up higher and we would not have the efficient school that we have today. Powell county is already heavily in debt and to build a new high school at this time would increase the debt at $20,000 the first year and would increase more as the years come. The people who are supporting this college send in $6,000 every year that the people of Powell county are saved. Let us realize how fortunate we are already and help in this splendid institution. Let us give it a boost and not be a knocker. Let us help to make it grow larger and stronger and Stanton a center of learning as Berea College has made the town of Berea. It is a well known fact that Berea College has made the town of Berea and Stanton College will make Stanton if we give it a lift. Hazel Green Academy has made Hazel Green; the school at Hindman has made Hindman; the many schools and universities has made Lexington a center of learning known the world over. And this is true of nearly all towns and cities that have schools and colleges. There are a dozen towns in Eastern Kentucky that would be glad to get our college but we could not afford to let it go. It would kill Stanton dead.

Several local politicians have stated that they are going to enter various races this fall, but in justice to those who pay the announcement fee and run their cards in The Times, we cannot consider them candidates and give them any publicity until they do likewise.
